Stockton in the News

Business Journal and FOX40: Medici Artist Lofts

One of downtown Stockton's iconic buildings is being rehabilitated and brought back to life. The Historic Medico-Dental Building was originally constructed in 1927 specifically for medical and dental professionals. 3 Leaf Holdings and Ten Space are joining together to bring a new purpose to the building with a mixed-use development. Learn more about the project from recent coverage in the Central Valley Business Journal "Artist Lofts Project to Begin Construction in Stockton" and FOX40 "Old Stockton Dental Office to be Transformed Into Artist Lofts."

CBS Sacramento: Port of Stockton

The Port of Stockton saw its best year yet with record revenues in 2017. On May 22, CBS Sacramento covered this accomplishment along with the Port's goals for the future in the industry and community. Click here to watch CBS Sacramento's "Port of Stockton Projects Aim to Bring More Jobs to Area."

Grant Funding for Food Processors
The California Energy Commission is offering a grant funding opportunity for food production companies. As a part of its 2018 Food Production Investment Program (FPIP), the Energy Commission has up to $57 million to help support California food production facilities install energy efficient and/or renewable energy technologies that will reduce operating costs and greenhouse gas emissions. For more information, including the program guidelines, eligibility requirements, and application, visit the California Energy Commission’s Other Research Funding Opportunities for the Energy Research and Development Division page. The deadline to submit applications is August 31, 2018.
